

David D. Cardone

Description

Biography

David is a founding partner of Dunn DeSantis Walt & Kendrick, LLP. For two decades, his practice has focused on commercial litigation, professional liability disputes, and employment matters of all types. He regularly appears in California trial and appellate courts. He is known for his successful representation of clients facing high stakes litigation. David also regularly counsels businesses on strategic decision-making and risk management matters.

From 2006-2008, David served as one of six judicial law clerks to Justice Cynthia A. Baldwin of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. In that role, David worked on dozens of majority and collateral opinions, reviewed and recommended the disposition of scores of petitions for allocatur, which is the Pennsylvania Supreme Court's discretionary review mechanism, and attended over 100 oral arguments.

Prior to his clerkship, David practiced in both Pennsylvania and Los Angeles, where he was primarily involved in large-scale commercial insurance coverage dispute litigation.

Representative Matters

- Prosecuted an inverse condemnation claim on behalf of a San Diego restaurant group affected by construction in the Gaslamp District resulting in a substantial settlement for the restaurant.
- Lead trial counsel on behalf of an employee with sexual harassment and wrongful termination claims against her former employer, which resulted in one of the top 50 labor & employment verdicts in the United States for 2023 following a multi-week jury trial.
- Represented a San Diego-based general contractor in a dispute over delays in a complicated hospital construction project resulting in a large recovery for the contractor along with a waiver of all known and unknown claims against the contractor.
- Obtained a large recovery on behalf of a disabled Navy veteran who was denied access to a flight by a national airline.
- Participated in the successful opposition to a motion for class certification of a 1700+ plaintiff class action in which named plaintiffs were independent contractors who claimed to be misclassified employees of a transportation management company. The Fourth District Court of Appeal affirmed, and the California Supreme Court denied review.
- Participated in the successful opposition to a motion for class certification of a large proposed class of property owners who, according to the named plaintiffs, were defrauded by parties involved in a coastal real estate development.
- Authored a successful motion to dismiss on the basis of forum non conveniens on the basis that California residents could not litigate in California courts claims involving real property located in Afghanistan, resulting in an order transferring venue to the court of Afghanistan.
- Assisted in the defense of a prominent international insurance syndicate facing coverage claims raised by a California-based petroleum company, for damage caused by South American terrorists, under a policy with a war-risk exclusion.

- Assisted in the successful representation of a Pennsylvania-based petroleum company in a complex coverage and professional negligence action against its insurer and commercial lines broker involving placement of coverage for a risk foreseeable in the petroleum industry.
- Prepared an analysis of free speech rights for the largest North American retailer of a brand of imported cigars in preparation for an advertising campaign.
- Defeated trial court defamation claims and subsequent appeals raised by a plaintiff against a California law firm that described trial court victories over that plaintiff in underlying litigation.
- Assisted in the resolution of a complex coverage dispute and month-long trial in Santa Barbara County, which involved claims for hundreds of millions of dollars in actual and punitive damages to a coastal resort, where the primary issue was application of California's manifestation-of-damage law.
- Obtained an arbitration decision in favor of the drummer of a successful musical band against other band members for the value of his share of their general partnership.
- Authored and won a motion for judgment on the pleadings in an insurance coverage matter in which the critical issue of law was a matter of first impression for the Pennsylvania courts, the decision of which was not appealed.
